From the hour when he was surprised to find in the newspapers that he had been appointed brigadier general of volunteers, down to the moment when a higher grade than was ever known in our armies was created for him, he never felt the least saxiety for promotion. But self-control under unmerited and preposterous disgrace, however temporary, seems to prove more than any of his deeds the greatness of his character. Remeinher that immediately after the famous victory of Fort Doneison, in which he had presented afteen thousand prisoners, seventeen thousand six hundred small arms and sixty-five cannon to the United States, he was most unjustly and causelessly threatened with arrest and deprived of his command, and that he did his beet, while claiming justice from his commanding officers of the world withdraw his resignation, to for the world withdraw his resignation, to for the world withdraw his resignation, to for the world withdraw his resignation. espection and Muster of the Sixth Regiment, New York State National Guard. Pursuant to general orders, No. 5, from the beadational Guard, paraded yesterday at Tompkins quare. for annual inspection and review. If there ere any among the limited number of spectators tracted to the ground by the music of the regifter the manner of the Ninth Seventh and Fifth ats they must have been sadly disappointed. since the Sixth regiment was formed, half a century since, never was it handled so carelessly by its officers, or was there more mistakes of an inexcusable kind perpetrated at a parade. It is true that Colonel Steinway has a good excuse for the shortcomings of his officers and men, massuch as there are nearly thirty persons newly commissioned in the regiment and that the ranks have been recently strengthened by an infusion of raw material. There was neither company nor battalion drills last winter; the regimental commander despaired of perfecting the organization up to the standard of a live regiment, and apathy and indifference prevailed in the rank and file. Colonel Steinway, on being elected to the command last spring, made a property of the city banks, including the Republic, the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Charling House yesterday and to-day, while the Bank of New York was debtor for about a million and a half, and these changes reflect the operations of the company in the Republic, the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Commonwealth and the Union, have been already and to-day, while the Bank of New York was debtor for about a million and a half, and these changes reflect the operations of the conspirators. It is estimated that between seven and eight millions have been already withdrawn from circulation, and it is understood that several millions have in the rank and file. Colonel Steinway, on being elected to the command last spring, made a vigorous effort to save it from dissolution and instituted reforms that have produced an excellent effect in the morale of the oilicers and men. The returns show that the strength of the battation has been increased by 150 men during the last year. But while every credit must be given Colonel Steinway for his efforts in behalf of the regiment, and all possible allowances made for the ignorance and experience of the officers and men, it is due to the other organizations that have already, paraded for inspection, and whose blunders were fully commented on, to make no tender mention of yesterday's proceedings.

and whose blunders were fully commented on, to make no tender mention of yesterday's proceedings.

The command marched into the square shortly before two o'clock, and was haited in the centre of the ground and formed in line of battle. Of course the movements incident to a review could not be conducted in so narrow a space, and the line had to be thrown back fully fifty yards. This was the initial blunder of the day. The police, under Captain Bloant, of the Seventeenth precinct, kept the ground free of stragglers, so that the movements of the regiment were not interfered with in any way. General Liebenau was not present to make the review, but Major Godfrey, the brigade inspector, made up for his absence by energetic advice to everybody who scomed to him to require it. He could not review the battalton, however, Colonel Steinway being the ranking officer. It appeared that the lieutenant colonel did not expect that the commandant would be the reviewing officer, and was consequently unprepared to do his duty. The excase should not be entertained. When the line was formed Colonel Steinway, advised and instructed by Major Godfrey, took position for review. Whether the attitude of the colonel or the energetic interference of the inspecting officer, who should have remained Stenway, advised and instructed by Major Godfrey, took position for review. Whether the attitude of the colonel or the energetic interference of the inspecting officer, who should have remained quiet, old the Hentenant colonel's business could not be ascertained; but certainly at this moment he became thoroughly demonalized, and did not recover until the review was completed. To make matters worse the band broke out into a burst of uncauted for music, which only the most volent gesticulation on the part of the field officers brought to an end. The drum corps gave three ruffles when the colonel acknowledged the salute of the regiment.

the regiment. The lieutenant calonel forcet to give the order.

She order arms, and the men were consequently kept at the "present" until the inspecting officer had made the tour of the regiment. The two companies on the extreme left were brought to a carry by their respective commanders. Officers of the Seventh and Eighth companies and the non-commissioned staff satured the inspector while he was passing and many other blunders were perpetrated. The marching in review was not bad, but the drum major did not go near the marker when changing direction and turned out fully ten paces before he reached the reviewing officer. There were too many blunders, in fact, made by the officers during the review to be mentioned in detail. The men looked well, but they betrayed in their movements a want of familiarity with their pieces which it will take a winter to supply.

General Burger came on the ground while the regiment was being mustered and was tendered the bonor of a review by the colonel. It is but justice to say that the second was a great improvement on the first attempt. Major foddirey did not interfere. The saintes of the officers were we'l given. The commandant of the first and last companies in line did not commit any mistakes and appeared to be well versed in their duties. The regiment has an efficient adjutant. To tai 520.

The Parade of the Eleventh Brigade.

The Parade of the Eleventh Brigade.

The annual parade of the Eleventh brigade, which consists of the Twenty-third infantry, Colonel Ward; the Forty-seventh, Colonel Austin; the Fifty-sixth, Colonel Adams, and the Howitzer battery, Captain Peck, took place yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large number of speciators at the Prospect Park parade ground, Brooklyn. The ranks of the various commands were well filled and the brigade was handled in an admirable manner by the commander, General J. V. Messeroic.

The Macreraline Season is fast drawing to a close, and another fortnight will about wind up the business. The vessels off shore have not done much the past fortnight, and the latest advices from the bay represent mackerel very scarce at that locality. The indications now are that there will be a failing off of full one half in the bay catch from last year. Some of the vessels that have been there all the scason have less than 200 barrels, and unless the fleet meet with an unusual strenk of luck this month the season's work will prove a slim one to the majority of our fishermen.—Cape Ann Advertiser, Oct. 18.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

TURSDAY, Oct. 20-6 P. M. TOBRDAY, Oct. 20—6 P. M.

The gold market has been without any marked speculative feature to-day, and fluctuations were from 187% at the opening to 186%, with the closing transactions prior to the adjournment of the board at three o'clock at 187%, following which sales were made at 187, and the latest quotation on the street was 186% a 187. The borrowing demand was only produced as certified, and the tendency of rates was 136% a 137. The borrowing demand was only moderately active, and the tendency of rates was in favor of the borrower. Loans were made at 5-32, 36, 9-64, 3-16, 3-32, 1-32, 3-64 and 1-16 per cent per diem in favor of the lender of the coin and afterwards "flat." The gross clearings amounted to $111,186,000, the gold balances to $1,611,325 and the currency balances to $2,585,400. The Sub-Treasury disbursed $8,505 in coin in payment of interest on the public debt and sold $300,000 in gold, the blds for which amounted to only $600,000, and $50,000 was awarded to Henry Clews & Co. at 136 85-100 and $250,000 to Cowing. John-& Co. at 136 85-100 and $250,000 to Cowing, John ston & Co. at 138 85-100 a 136 87-100. The current of speculation continues to be in favor of a lower premium, and as soon as the Treasury begins to pay out the November interest and cash gold becomes in consequence abundant there will be nothing to obstruct the operations of the bears, who will probably make the most of the opportunity. The price varied at intervals as fol-

 Government securities opened steady at the de cline of yesterday, but after the first call there was a heavy pressure to sell on "short" account, which in was a sharp decline in prices. These "short" sales were apparently based upon information of a money market artificially stringent, and they furnish a basis for a fresh upward movement. Moreover, in the country, all the speculative railway shares being comparatively dear. The present reaction has been sharper than was generally expected, owing to the monetary activity which has set in and fears of stringency; but it cannot fail to be followed by a quick recovery in the present state of the public mind with respect to our national securities, the investment demand for which is steadily increasing. On the Stock Ex-change there has been a weak and unsettled market all day, and late in the afternoon it fell into a state of panic, Northwestern preferred selling down to 88, Cleveland and Pittsburg to 85, New York Central to 125% and Eric to 46%. The pressure to sell was very great, but Rock Island, Pacific Mail and Mariposa preferred were firmly and showed much stubborness in yielding. There were large sales of Erie made under the belief that the company has recently issued and converted into stock a large amount of convertible bonds in the about to be thrown upon the market for the purpose of breaking down the price. The same inducaces work elsewhere, and fears of a tight money market stimulated sales to realize and emboldened ticularly vulnerable to attack owing to their recent rapid advance and the fact that they were and still are selling at prices far above their real value. Northwestern preferred fell more than six per cent than seven, the stock having been offered at par about five o'clock, and from this it is easy to see with what suddenness nearly all the other speculative stocks may decline, and the greater the fall the greater the demoralization of the market; for as margins are swept away the pressure to sell in-creases, until the work of ruin is completed. We have often cautioned the public to avoid buying railway shares at their present highly inflated prices, and the danger of acting otherwise is now apparent.

in the forencon, and as the day advanced the demand for loans at seven per cent became very active, and towards the close it transpired that a combination of unprincipled stockjobbers is at work to produce stringency for the purpose of creating a panic in stocks, and in this the purpose of creating a panic in stocks, and in this there is, unfortunately, reason to believe that they are assisted by a number of bank managers and others. Four of the city banks, including the Republic, the Commonwealth and the Union, have been creditors to a large amount at the Clearing House yesterday and to-day, while the Bank of New York was debtor for about a million and a half, and these changes reflect the operations of the comprisenters. It is estimated that between seven upon the market for cash simultaneously with the money "squeeze." The prevailing distrust was increased by a despatch from Washington to the effect that the currency balance in the Treasury amounts to little more than will be compelled to increase its gold sales; but this seems hardly credible, and we warn Wall street statements. Seven per cent and a small com-mission added were paid for loans in not a few instances this afternoon, and the banks as a rule had no money to lend, all their surplus funds being employed. It has, therefore, been suggested—and we give our unqualified support to the recommendation—that the banks relax their rule of not encroaching upon their legal reserve, and so frustrate the efforts of the unscrupulous combination now at work. The Nakept, evidently meant it for use in periods of exceptional pressure, and the banks have ample power to employ any portion of it as they may see fit. The Comptroller of the Currency, may, it is true, notify banks with a deficient reserve of their shortcomings, but they have thirty days afterwards in which to make it good, and public opinion would support the banks in any effort to break up such a combination as this which is likely to work much mischief if not overpowered. The banks by loaning only a small part of their reserve could keep the money market well supplied. We do not speak with reference to the interests of Wall street, for it is immaterial how prices go on the - in the interest of the whole business community.

At the community of business the stock market was weak, and at the early session of the open board an unsettled feeling prevailed, while prices were about the same as at the close last evening, Erie seiling at 47%, Reading 99 and Rock Island 106%. Mesers. Jay Cooke & Co., in their circular, thus refer to the day's business:—

The temper of the government market has undergone a great change since yesterday's article; an active, rising market has yielded to the pressure of events and is succeeded by comparative dulness. The main cause of this is the apprehension of tight money to be brought about by locking up greenbacks. This started on the Stock Exchange and was soon felt all over the street, governments yielding as well as other values, but by no means in comparison to the fall in leading speculative shares. This apprehension caused many small holders to sell out their bonds rather than be caught in a stringent money market, and the fact of their being out of the market, coupled with the fact that the "shorts" have materially increased their lines to-day, is considered as forming a substantial foundation for another rise. The market opened this morning at about the closing rates of yesterday, but, as stated above, yielded to the pressure and gradually settled with but fractional reactions to our closing prices. As we close our article we notice an increased inquiry for bonds at present prices and we quote the market as above, but closing very steady.

The foreign exchange market was steady but rather dull, and at the close bankers' bills on Eng-

REAL ESTATE MATTERS.

Another Busy Day at the Exchange-Improved City Property-Brooklyn Improved and Unimproved Property-Pennsylvania Timber and Farm Land-Prices and Par-

the real estate market which characterized it last week was resumed yesterday. The Exchange salesroom became again the scene of interest and excitement, and presented to the several auctioneers who occupied their stands the encouraging speciatic of a crowded house, and as a natural consequence the prospect of rapid sales and appreciative prices. Four firms of real estate auctioneers conducted some choice city property of that kind which now seldom comes into the public market, and which, when it does, is eagerly bought up. First was a substantial two story and attic high stoop brick house and lot, No. 215 Clinton street, west side, between Madison and Henry streets, one block from East Broadway; lot, 23.6x95; house, 23.6x 43; built by day's work; has brown stone trimmings, slate roof, sub-cellar flagged; contains seventeen rooms, hot and cold water, bath, gas, chandellers, range, &c. Then the valuable business property situated in the rear of No. 72 to No. 84 Sullivan street, near Spring, with an alleyway 8 feet 6 inches wide. TROTTING AT THE UNION COURSE.

TUESDAY, Oct. 20,-Match $1,000, mile heats, best

the favorite at twenty-five to twenty before the scoring began, but the black acted so unsteadily and broke up so often that the mare ran into favor before the word was given. When the horses were started Lady Wells had the best of the send off by a length, but before they had gone 100 yards the gelding was even with her. He then broke up and the mare beat him to the quarter-pole a length and a half in thirty-nine seconds. Going down the backstretch the gelding soon made up the lost ground, took sides with the mare for a moment and then showed in front. He drew gradually away and passed the half-mile pole one length and a half in front in 1:19. From there to the end the gelding had an easy task before him, and he came home a winner of the heat by four lengths, making the heat in 2:38. Second Heat.—Two to one was then laid on Tweed. When they came up for the start the gelding was about four lengths, behind the mare and his driver beckoned for the word, which was given, and it was no sooner utered than the gelding broke up and lost two or three more lengths. The mare led six lengths to the quarter pole in thirty-mine seconds. The gelding trotted quite fast for a time on the backstretch, but when within a couple of lengths of the mare he broke up again. He, however, was at the wheel of the mare when she passed the half mile, in 1:18. He rushed past her on the lower turn, and was a length and a half ahead of the mare at the three-quarter pole, and coming up the homestretch steadily won by two lengths, in 2:37.

Third Heat.—Five to one were laid on the black before the horses were brought on the track, but when the sooring began the gelding behaved so badly that some doubt of his winning led many to offer forty against one hundred that the mare would win. Soon after the word was given the gelding broke up and fell off nearly a dozen lengths, and before he resovered the mare also broke up and lost considerable ground. She was, however, its lengths ahead at the quarter pole in thirty-nine seconds. On the backstretch the gelding trotted very fast, closing on the mare at every stride, and he headed her at the half-mile and Zinc Company of New Jersey.

A few months since under our scientific notices we called attention to the new discovery in the art of producing white lead and zinc in chemical combiwe called attention to the new discovery in the art of producing white lead and zine in chemical combination, and without the use of any acid in the preduction which has heretofore been a great objection to all white leads. At the time we thought the discovery of great importance, but from tests since made by some of our most prominent firms engaged in the white lead trade it is found to be superior to any pigment heretofore made for firmness, bedy and durability, in fact, in every essential necessary to form a perfect paint. The government has lately issued to the discoverers letters patent granting them protection for all and every claim they made for the discovery. The great success which has attended the introduction of this article has obliged the company to enlarge their capacity for producing and in a short time they will be enabled fo manufacture twenty-five tons per day.

The fact that such old established houses as C. J. Reynolds & Co., of this city, the Boston White Lead Company, of Boston, represented by the wealthy firm of J. S. Chadwick & Co., and the young and enterprising firm of Worcesier, Label & Standish, of Defroit, are the contractors for the entire product of the manufactory of this new pigment is a remarkable and convincing evidence of the value of the discovery and the influence it is destined to exert upon the white lead trade of the world.

We chronicle the progress of this enterprise as one of great public interest, without any reference to its private relations, and invite attention to it as one of those incidents connected with the growing necessities of man which suddenly presents itself in the cruchle of nature at the moment when most necessary to his hecessities and to the demands of the period.

A gentleman at Biarritz recently undertook for a wager to awim for one hour in the sea, having two gourds filled with rum Instened around his waist. Finding his strength giving way he was obliged to empty the gourds in order to keep afloat. By this means he won his wager, but landed in such a state of intoxication that he assanished the whole colony or bather.
